A winning partnership

Samuel Ward Academy to link up with Newmarket College to help pull it out of special measures and on the road to improvement

■ BY LIZZY BUCHAN AND
DEBRA FOX

AN ACADEMY principal has pledged to make pupils more "positive and confident" after being appointed to head up a struggling college.

Samuel Ward Academy principal Howard Lay has been chosen to lead Newmarket College out of special measures and improve the quality of education there.

The Haverhill academy, on Chalkstone Way, is a National Support School and they were approached by the Department of Education to sponsor the college and go into partnership with them.

Mr Lay will take on a dual role as executive principal of both colleges in April 2014, if the application to sponsor Newmarket College is approved by the government.

The "inspirational" principal took charge of Samuel Ward in 2000, and after four years of hard work managed to pull the school from satisfactory to outstanding.

The school has stayed at the top of the table ever since.

Mr Lay said: "I feel happy talking to the kids and watching them in lessons. It's exciting to see the transformation in pupils who often feel not confident in themselves displaying such confidence and energy and commitment."

"That's the wonderful thing about teaching. It's a fantastic job because of that."

Focusing on being role models for the pupils, Mr Lay explained, is the perfect way to transform a struggling school's results.

The principal is currently working at the college one or two days a week, putting an education strategy in place for the future.

Dr Bob Cadwalladr, principal of Newmarket College, has expressed his excitement at being sponsored by the outstanding school.

He said: "I believe that this secures the future of the college and will drive and support our school improvement journey."

Newmarket College was put into special measures in April but achieved the best GCSE results in its history last month.

Dr Cadwalladr said: "Our ambition is not just to get out of special measures, but to continue on to become a good and then an outstanding school and our partnership with the Samuel Ward Academy Trust will be really important in securing this outcome."

"Ultimately, academy status will

Cllr Lisa Chambers, Suffolk County Council's cabinet member for education, skills and young people, said she was "delighted" by the partnership.

She said: "Howard is a respected and well-regarded national leader for education so I'm delighted that he has agreed to join Newmarket College."

"I'm confident that with Howard's leadership, dedicated staff and governors and support from the county council, Newmarket College will quickly regain its position as a provider of good quality education."

West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock added his praise, hailing Mr Lay as "one of the most inspirational head teachers I know".

He said: "He has widespread experience in bringing rigour and high standards to turn around failing schools."

"His appointment is excellent news for pupils and parents in Newmarket, and marks the start of a new chapter for the college."

"I look forward to working closely with Howard on his crucial task, and hope the whole community rallies round to support Howard and Newmarket College to deliver for all children in Newmarket."

bring with it support, structures and funding to ensure sustainable and high quality teaching and learning to the long term benefit of the young people of Newmarket.

"In the period of transition I am delighted to be working with Howard Lay and his colleagues from the Samuel Ward Academy. They have already made a difference and we have seen concrete steps to help us develop further good and outstanding practice."

Mr Lay said that working in partnership with neighbouring schools is encouraged by the Department of Education.

He said: "We don't just support

THOUSANDS of visitors flocked to Haverhill's Recreation Ground in July for the town's inaugural Summer Bash.

But while guests were still enjoying their last beer from the tent and burger from the barbecue, the organisers were already looking forward to next year.

And they've decided that next year's Summer Bash will be a two-day event, with the Saturday dedicated to sports and the Sunday reserved strictly for fun. Show committee chairman David Doughty said that Haverhill Football Club have committed to holding the sports day, on July 19, at their ground at The New Croft, on Chalkstone Way.

He said: "There will be five-a-side football, cricket, baseball, gymnastic demonstrations, tennis, cycling, running, boxing and much more."

Plans are already in place to top off day one of next year's bash with an open air concert at the football ground, performed by local groups.

At this year's show, Haverhill Silver Band and Castle Manor's group Nice Manors were among those taking to the stage and the sports activities and competitions went on throughout the day.

Visitors and residents of Haverhill also enjoyed traditional fair fun, including baby, dog, flower and cake shows, and organisers worked for long hours on a short timescale to ensure there was something for everyone across the recreation ground's three arenas.

A competitive tug of war was a main attraction for the bash, while a parade of classic cars heralded the start of the event at 11am.

The second part of next year's bash, on July 20, will be opened by a parade from The New Croft to the recreation ground.

David said: "We hope to have a parade, march or walk from the Croft down to the recreation ground to tie in the two venues."

"Sunday will be the show day. Some of the sporting activities from this year's show will move to the Saturday, giving us more activities to add to the Sunday show day."

The team, which includes florist Fiona Pilcher and jeweller Tony Strowger, are staying tight-lipped about what's on the agenda, but they're determined it will be bigger and better.

This year's event raised £4,000 for main beneficiaries Lamp H, as well as the town's scouts and guides, elderly people and food bank and it is hoped that the weekend-long event will help them top this total next year.

Conrad is jumping from five-and-a-half miles above the earth in Memphis, Tennessee, on September 23.

He said: "The thrill of doing this and achieving a record, far outweigh the dangers in my mind."

Man released pending class A drug sentencing

A JUDGE has released a drug supplier on bail.

Brendon Jackson, 28, of Westward Deals, Kedington, was found guilty in July of feeding a methadone substitute to his cousin Daniel Boyle.

Daniel, who was 24 and from Haverhill, later died.

The pair were working in Bristol and had been drinking and smoking cannabis on the night of the incident, which took place in October 2011.

Jackson pleaded not guilty, saying he had not given the heroin substitute to his cousin or encouraged him to drink it.

Jackson has been in custody since July, but Judge Rupert Overbury released him on bail on Monday, pending sentence at Ipswich Crown Court.

Double death road is 'top priority' for safety works

CHRIS HAVERGAL

Local government correspondent

A CROSSROADS where two motorists died within a month earlier this year is set to be made a top priority for improvements.

The junction of Skippers Lane and Common Road, near West Wratting, could become a staggered crossroads in a bid to reduce vehicle speeds.

In May, Haverhill resident Bradley Gamble, 20, was killed when his car was involved in a collision with a van at the junction. A month earlier, 47-year-old Dean Cork, also from Haverhill, was killed when his scooter collided with a van there.

Cllr Roger Hickford, who represents Linton on Cambridgeshire County Council, said he understood the crossroads would be the number one priority for safety improvements next year.

He said: "This is good news and I am very pleased this junction has become a top priority. Officers at the county council have been working very hard to bring forward plans for improvement to the junction.

"All funding in the current financial year has been allocated, as these sort of projects take a lot of planning and preparation.

"The scheme is still very much in its infancy, in terms of feasibility, consultation and design. It is the county council's intention to deliver improvements to this junction during the 2014/15 financial year."

The junction is approached from long, straight roads in all directions, and any improvements would look to reduce speeds. Possible ideas include installing 'stop' signs, building a roundabout, and planting more trees along the roads.

Cllr Hickford said: "My preferred choice is for a staggered junction, although other potential solutions must always be considered.

"A staggered junction would ensure drivers on the two side roads would need to slow down and give way to cars on the main carriageway, whatever direction they are taking at the junction."

The causes of both collisions are yet to be determined by inquests.

In the aftermath of the crashes, residents complained about safety at the junction.

Liz Drury, of nearby Weston Woods Farm, said there had been a lot of near misses, with speed often a factor, while Susan Norvall, an employee at Powerwise in the area, said she arrived for work 45 minutes early every day to avoid the traffic.

A council spokesman said: "This junction is a high priority for the county council in terms of measures to improve safety – but it will have to be judged alongside any other schemes which qualify for the assessment list for improvements from next year's road safety budget."

Lorry and two cars in collision

DRIVERS escaped a crash with minor injuries on Monday when two cars and a lorry were in collision in Little Wratting.

The crash happened on Haverhill Road in the village, at around 4.15pm.

Four people had to be freed from their vehicles and officers from Suffolk Fire and Rescue service had to cut the roof off two of the cars involved.

Three men and one woman were transferred to Addenbrooke's with minor head and neck injuries.

A spokesman for the East of England

Ambulance Service said that the injuries were not "life-threatening".

The trapped people had been rescued from their vehicles by 5.45pm, but a diversion remained in place while recovery work took place.

The road was reopened at 7.20pm.

A Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service spokesman said: "It is believed that there was a fourth vehicle involved, but no one was trapped."

Suffolk Police reported that a white Renault Traffic, a silver Toyota Previa, a VW Das Truck and a white Nissan Juke were at the scene.

Cinema screening for cancer funds

HOLLYWOOD heart throb Patrick Swayze is being honoured at a special screening in Haverhill.

The town's Cineworld, on Ehringhausen Way, is holding a charity viewing of cinematic favourite Dirty Dancing to raise money for pancreatic cancer.

The show, which starts at 8pm on November 24, ties in with Pancreatic Cancer Awareness Month. Swayze died of the illness in 2009.

Operations Manager Jane Walford, teamed up with Clair Giles, a supporter and regular donor to the Cambridge Pancreatic Cancer Centre, to hold the event.

Tickets cost £5.

The classic film has been digitally remastered since debuting in 1987.

Nursery anniversary at Dizzy's started by Liz Nunn.

Rated Outstanding, the nursery has been celebrating this week with parents and children.

New HQ opens for council

A GRAND opening has taken place for Kedington Parish Council's new headquarters.

The building, which was designed by parish councillor Peter Donoghue, was opened on September 3 by Lady Berridge, former councillor, and current chair Cllr Simon McGuire.

Based at the village's community centre on Arms Lane, the new building replaces the parish council's rented space, which had to be closed down as it was unsafe to work in.

Parish Council Chairman Simon McGuire, said that the development would not have been possible without the grants given by Suffolk County Councillors Anne Gower and Tony Brown's Locality Budgets, Dilip Visana from the NISA supermarket in Kedington and St Edmundsbury Borough Council and work done by local businesses.

He said: "Kedington Parish Council is extremely grateful to all those who helped with the project

"It is good to be able to use local resources to provide not only a permanent office and meeting room for the Parish Council, but an asset for the village."

Corn Exchange – dream gets closer

DEBRA FOX

VISIONS to turn the town's old Corn Exchange building into a heritage centre have taken a step in the right direction this week.

County councillor Tony Brown presented his plan to make full use of the building to the ONE Haverhill board on Tuesday, and it has been met with positivity from all sides.

The UKIP councillor, who represents Haverhill East and Kedington, has hailed it as an exciting step – but only the first in a “long struggle” to benefit the town.

He said: “We have had some really positive comments and offers of help to move this forward.”

Haverhill town councillors have already pledged their support for the scheme, but now they must decide exactly what they can do to help the plans to the next step.

Support has also been flooding in from residents, who are desperate to see something exciting and new come to their town.

It is hoped that if the building can be transformed into a heritage centre and gallery that the Haverhill History Group will be based there.

Linda Bevan, of Sturmer, wished everyone working on the renovation luck, and said that the Corn Exchange is the perfect place to develop the town's history.

In a letter to the Weekly News (see page 6) she said: “As the town grows to 37,000 in future years it really does need its own museum to help promote a feeling of identity and community in the town.”

Other organisations, including Highpoint Prison, are keen to get on board too.

Cllr Brown said: “Highpoint seem very interested in taking part because it's an ideal scheme for them to rehabilitate offenders.

“Hopefully we can get a lot of work done quickly and cheaply and when it's finished they can perhaps help with the cafe and other facilities.”

The “shell” of a building is on the west side of town – an area that Cllr Brown says is in great need of a revival and increased footfall.

But before any work can start on the inside, the building needs to fall into the town's possession from private ownership.

Cllr Brown says that one option they are looking into is trying to take control of the Corn Exchange through the Community Right to Buy Scheme – which could freeze the sale of building while the town gets the money together.

The scheme, which is part of the Localism Bill, gives communities the power to take control of integral facilities that are threatened with closure or sale.

Cllr Brown said: “It's a lovely old building and it's just becoming more neglected as time goes by.

“Now, we can all go away and start getting some steps together. It's going to be a long process, with so many things to do for this community project.”

Primary school is top of the class

CONGRATULATIONS are in order for a village primary school which has been praised for its results.

Ridgewell Primary School, in Church Lane, Ridgewell, received the seal of approval from the director of education for Essex Tim Coulson.

In a letter, he hailed the school as “impressive” and said it achieved some of the highest marks across the whole of the county.

He said: “You have ensured high-quality outcomes for many of your pupils, contributing to the depth and breadth of excellence shown in Essex's primary sector.

“I was particularly impressed to see that the school achieved some of the highest performances across the county on the new Early Years Profile measure, the highest improvement across Key Stage 1 and achieved in some of the highest performance areas for the county at Key Stage 2.”

Headteacher Denise Madden said she is proud of her school's achievements, and that this has started the school off on a promising track for the new academic year.

She said: “With such a brilliant start to the school year we have something strong to build upon together. I am sure we can achieve even greater success this year.

“It's testament of the hard work from the team over the last year.”

Mr Coulson also congratulated Mrs Madden and the other Ridgewell teachers, stating that achieving such high standards and improvements is something to be proud of.

Visit www.ridgewell.essex.sch.uk for more information about the school, including its in-built pre-school Little Stars.

A magical session at school with children's author

PUPILS were treated to a spellbinding day of activities when the author of Winnie the Witch paid them a visit.

Pippa Goodhart visited Kedington Primary School on Monday and spent the day moving from class to class having fun with the school's children.

The classes enjoyed a book reading and question-and-answer session with Pippa before spending a creative day making a collage, sculpting characters and taking care of Winnie.

Year 6 teacher Eleanor Cooke organised the visit to tie in with the school's new focus on reading.

She said: "The children thought Winnie was lonely so they made her a dating website and a Facebook page and we had a fashion parade with new clothes for her.

"Pippa is an author that the children know particularly well and we could extend the activities across the whole school."

The students also enjoyed a cooking session and other arts and crafts during the day.

Hindley's unit has too many prisoners

RAYMOND BROWN

INSPECTORS have "grave concerns" about the number of prisoners with severe mental health problems in the prison unit near Haverhill which held Myra Hindley.

The Moors murderer was held at HMP Highpoint in isolation from 1998 until her death in 2002.

Now a report by the prisons' Independent Monitoring Board has raised concerns about the segregation unit.

Inspectors said: "The board continues to have very grave concerns about the number of prisoners it continues to see with severe mental health problems. Regrettably it is often the segregation unit that becomes a place of safety while a transfer is sought to enable the appropriate treatment to be given.

"The board is disturbed that there seems to be no real progress."

Secret details of Hindley's high-security visit to Cambridge and her time in Highpoint were revealed in January.

The document plotting the operation to take the child-killer to Addenbrooke's was obtained by the Weekly News from an academic studying her public persona as the "icon of evil".

Hindley and Ian Brady murdered five children between 1963 and 1965 in Greater Manchester.

A secure prison van was used to transport her at 5.15pm on January 13, 2000, to Addenbrooke's.

The reason for her stay at the hospital is not documented, but it happened in the same month she suffered a stroke and needed heart scans while at Highpoint.

Dr Tom Clark, a sociology lecturer at Sheffield University, spent three years trawling through the archives before coming across the Addenbrooke's visit.

Inspectors praised the "dedication and commitment" of prison staff but also raised concerns about delays over the increasing number of foreign national prisoners.

The report said: "The board again urges more timely decisions on the immigration status of foreign national prisoners and deplores that this delay leads to some being over sentence."

But prison chiefs were praised for their work in preparing offenders for release in their "overall judgement" of the jail.

Inspectors said: "A safe and decent establishment is dependent upon the commitment of staff at all levels. The board acknowledges and commends the commitment of staff at Highpoint."

"Much good work is being done within the prison to prepare offenders for release, and the board hopes this will continue."

Make your selection for Haverhill's new town councillor

NOMINATIONS are in for the vacant town council seat on Haverhill North Ward.

Polling is on October 10 from 7am until 10pm and there are four candidates in the running for the position.

Potential councillors from Labour, Conservative and independent parties are competing for the seat, as well as a nomination for UKIP.

Former town councillor Bryan Hawes, who resigned from the seat last month, has nominated Frank Robbins, of UKIP, to be his replacement.

Mr Hawes resigned after a complaint about him was made to the borough council by colleagues, following a racist remark that was intended as a "joke".

He called for an election himself and encouraged nine other family members, friends and neighbours to do the same.

He said: "I think there should always be an election – it should not just be a trade-off between the two main parties on the council. That's democracy."

Frankie Boyle is the independent candidate, Mary Weston is standing for Labour and Chris Wheatley has been nominated for the Conservatives.

To make your vote visit polling stations at New Cangle Primary School, in Chappel Drive, Methodist Church Rooms, on Church Road, or Haverhill Rugby Club in School Lane.

Good luck: this is a great idea

I THINK it is an excellent idea to renovate the Corn Exchange and use it as a museum for the town. The Haverhill and District Local History Group has an excellent collection of resources and provides invaluable support for people who are interested in history and other local history groups like ours in Sturmer. They are actively seeking funding for projects and need a space to display artefacts that are in storage. The recent Hail Haverhill exhibition gave a taste of what they can do. As the town grows to 37000 in future years it really does need its own museum to help promote a feeling of identity and community in the town. Most towns have one e.g. Halstead, Saffron Walden, Braintree. Other buildings that urgently need attention are the old Atherton and Ellis buildings at the other end of the town. Renovating these and the Corn Exchange will improve the look of the approach to the town at both ends and be good for the town's image. I'm sure that many other uses could be found for the centre as well as a museum – wedding venue, mother and baby club, adult education classes etc. Good luck to all those working on this renovation.

It's pyjama day!

I WOULD like to tell you readers about a fun children's charity event which I am supporting this October. Humphrey's Pyjama Week, in aid of The Children's Trust, is an annual fundraiser from 7-11 October, for nurseries, playgroups and primary schools throughout the UK to get involved in.

Youngsters will be encouraged to put on their favourite pair of pyjamas or onesie for one day for a voluntary donation of £2 each, and themed events can also be organised such as treasure hunts and best dressed competitions. So, why not spread the word to your children's teachers or playgroup assistants to take part in this fundraising week to raise money for some very special children. Money raised will be of huge benefit to the Trust, based in Surrey, which is the UK's leading charity for children with acquired brain injury, multiple disabilities and complex health needs. I have attached a photo of me wearing my favourite PJs during Humphrey's Pyjama Week last year. So, why not join up now by registering on-line at www.thechildrenstrust.org.uk/humphrey. For further details email: humphrey@thechildrenstrust.org.uk

MP to hold second jobs fair in town

WEST Suffolk's MP is pledging to help those hunting for a job. Matthew Hancock is holding a jobs fair in Haverhill, to help with employment, apprenticeships and CV writing. The fair, which is free to attend, will bring together local businesses and organisations to offer as many opportunities as possible. Mr Hancock said there is still a lot of work to do in Haverhill, despite unemployment falling in the area. He said: "I am delighted to be holding a second jobs fair in Haverhill. Last year was a great success and I hope we can help even more people this year." The fair will be held at the town's Arts Centre, on the high street on October 11 from 10am until 12.30pm.

Rewards for the summer readers

THOUSANDS of children got spooky this summer and took part in the county's busiest reading challenge ever.

More than 7,000 participants took part in the Creepy House challenge during the school holidays and presentations have begun across Suffolk to award the keen readers.

Bookworms who completed six books during the holidays will receive a certificate and medal in honour of their achievement.

DEBRA FOX

Libraries in Clare and Haverhill have already celebrated the hard work of their talented readers, with presentations on September 10 and September 15.

Shona Bendix, Chair of Suffolk Libraries, said that regular visits to the library can make a difference to a child's reading skills, and encourage an interest in books, stories and characters.

She said that libraries have been working hard countywide to ensure this year was the most successful reading challenge yet.

More than 400 children signed up to the challenge at Haverhill Library, with 276 of them completing six books.

Town Mayor Roger André attended the prize giving, where 186 keen readers received their certificates. County councillors Julian Flood and Tony Brown also visited on the day.

HOPE FOR THE BEST BUT PLAN FOR THE WORST

The Cost of Care

The erosion of assets as a result of long-term care costs is becoming a concern for many. We are living longer and consequently professional care may become a necessity for many of us.

Care Legislation

The NHS and Community Care Act 1990 obliges Local Authorities to carry out an assessment of anyone who appears to have a care need and to ensure the individual has access to suitable care.

Once an individual's care needs have been established, the Local Authority will carry out a Means Test to determine the reasonable cost of care required and assess the individual's ability to pay for or contribute towards the cost, taking into account both income and assets.

Those with assets over £23,250 are unlikely to receive any funding for care, but may be entitled to other benefits to help contribute towards the costs such as Attendance Allowance.

The Government is looking at state protection for people concerned by asset erosion with the proposed introduction of a cap on the amount individuals will be expected to pay for care during their lives. The level of the cap is expected to be in the region of £70,000, which remains a significant sum in relation to the value of many people's estates.

In situations where the person requiring care is leaving a vacant property, the value of the house will be included in their financial assessment but the individual or their attorneys will be free to decide how to raise the necessary funds to pay for the care. The Local Authority will not simply 'take the house' and it may be worth exploring other options which provide the required money whilst preserving the capital asset.

While a dependent relative is living in the house, the value of the house will be disregarded by the Local Authority when carrying out a Means Test.

Deprivation of assets

Making a gift of a home to children or making lump-sum payments in order to qualify for state support is known as a deprivation of assets. If it is apparent that someone has deliberately deprived themselves of a property or assets in order to qualify for state support, and there is no other compelling reason for the gift, the local authority will carry out the assessment as though the assets still belonged to the individual. There are no time limits on how far back the Local Authority will look.

A properly drafted Will

That said, peace of mind can still come from having a professionally drafted Will. If, for example, joint owners of a property pass their respective shares to their children, subject to the survivor's right to occupy, only the survivor's half of the property will be included in any future means test.

Fire strike safety tips

PREPARATIONS are under way to deal with the first fire service strike in decades.

Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service is preparing to deal with a national Fire Brigades' Union (FBU) strike, following the announcement 78 per cent of members have voted in favour of strike action.

The dispute is raging over government reforms to the Firefighters pension scheme.

Chief fire officer Andy Fry, said: "We have not yet received notification of any strike periods and we continue to operate as normal. However, we have been preparing and our contingency arrangements are ready to operate during any periods of strike action."

Chief fire officer Fry said: "During a strike period, my advice to the public is to take even greater care to prevent fires from breaking out at home."

"Simple steps like keeping a really close eye on cooking and making sure that cigarettes are disposed of properly can make all the difference."

Visit www.suffolk.gov.uk for safety tips.

Get back to work help

UNEMPLOYMENT in Haverhill is being tackled by a grocery company as part of a national campaign.

Youngsters from the town are being invited to take part in two free sessions, held by Intersnack UK.

The workshops will take place today and on September 26 in the company's Haverhill factory.

Visitors will meet employees, discover more about job roles and tour the factory before being given CV and interview tips.

Nicki Rumble, Lead UK HR Manager at Intersnack, said: "We are delighted to open our doors to give local youngsters some direct experience of our business and the chance to learn more about the food industry, which is one of the most exciting and dynamic sectors of UK manufacturing."

The Feeding Britain's Future campaign takes place across the country, inviting young people into farms, factories and stores.

OUTSTANDING: Leader Karen Thompson, right, at Linton Granta Playgroup.

Outstanding marks for playgroup

A VILLAGE playgroup is celebrating success after receiving the top score in a recent Ofsted inspection.

Linton Granta Playgroup, which meets at Linton Village College, was marked as outstanding across all areas when they were inspected in July.

Their last Ofsted visit took place in November 2011 – and they were rated as good.

Leader Karen Thompson has said that it was “overwhelming” to hear the playgroup had finally topped the table.

She said: “Surprised isn’t the right word, I was totally overwhelmed.”

“When I was told that we were outstanding, I think I cried.”

DEBRA FOX

debra.fox@cambridge-news.co.uk

The report praised the “dedicated staff” for being “absolutely committed” to delivering the highest standards possible.

Karen has been at the playgroup for four years, and has been in the driving seat for two-and-a-half years.

Since the last inspection, the Linton Granta staff have been working hard to raise standards.

The leader said: “We as a team were working towards outstanding and to be told that we have done it is absolutely brilliant – we are delighted.”

The playgroup has a wide and varied curriculum for two to four year-olds, who are welcome Monday to Friday.

At the time of the inspection, there were 49 children on the register. Up to 24 of them can attend any one session, and there are spaces available.

As well as taking advantage of Linton Village College’s facilities, the children take regular trips around the village to visit the bakeries, library and play centre.

The playgroup is open from 9.30am-1.30pm on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday and 9.20am-12.30pm on Tuesday and Friday.

Town to get the best of health

HAVERHILL’S health needs have been scrutinised and new plans for the town are being put in place.

The West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) has been collecting ideas on how to make Haverhill healthier, and now these options are being put to the test.

A meeting is taking place later this month to give residents the chance to have a say.

It is hoped that the meeting will help to shape a future vision for the town’s health and deliver what those living in Haverhill want.

The event is on September 26 from 7pm at Haverhill Leisure Centre on Ehringhausen Way.

Spaces are limited so to book a slot email getinvolved@westsuffolkccg.nhs.uk or call 01284 774 794.

Seasonal village fun

AN AUTUMN celebration is taking place in Hurdon.

The village’s Harvest Festival is taking place in All Saints Church on September 22 from 4pm.

After guests have given thanks, they can enjoy a bring and share Harvest supper before the evening’s entertainment kicks off.

An auction will take place for residents to showcase their best produce, and the evening will come to a close at around 5.30pm with a display of comedy and cabaret from volunteers. There will also be a raffle.

Get moving and manage disease

DEBRA FOX

PATIENTS who suffer from a limb-restricting illness are stepping into action across Suffolk this week.

Lymphoedema Awareness Week started on Monday and sufferers, carers, family and friends have been spending their days "stepping out" across the county to raise awareness for the condition.

Collectively, participants hope to walk one million steps in the name of the disease, which causes painful swelling, and loss of mobility in limbs.

Colin Spalding, 71, of Beaumont Vale, Haverhill, suffers from the condition, but has praised the work of a new treatment which has transformed his ability to stay active.

The 71-year-old says he is a different man to 18 months ago.

He said: "I am delighted with such a considerable difference."

The treatment, which is offered through GP organisation Partners in Practice (PIPS), involves fitting patients with compression garments.

Lymphoedema is caused when fluid does not move around the body properly, and sufferers have to undergo bandaging and massage before garments can be fitted.

As well as being fitted with the garments, Colin was advised to get active and practice healthy eating.

He said: "I have got used to helping myself. PIPS can't do it on their own, you have to help yourself to a certain extent."

Colin, armed with a pedometer, has taken his own steps for lymphoedema this week in a bid to show that the condition can improve.

The 71-year-old recently completed a classical sequence dancing session with wife Kay, 70, when he normally sits on the sidelines.

Diane Cheevers, a lymphoedema specialist nurse, said: "We are stepping into action for the awareness week because getting mobile and living healthily are important self-help factors in managing lymphoedema."

The disease's awareness week runs until September 23.

Big spenders

MPs' expenses under the spotlight again... and Matthew Hancock was one of the highest

CHRIS HAVERGAL

EXPENSES claimed by the region's MPs totalled nearly £300,000 last year and went up by 3 per cent on the previous 12 months.

And Haverhill's MP Matthew Hancock was one of the biggest spenders.

The total of £286,549 for 2012/13 compared to £278,636 during the previous year and covered expenses such as office costs, accommodation and travel, but not staff salaries.

According to figures released by the Independent Parliamentary Standards Authority, the biggest spenders last year were West Suffolk's Matthew Hancock and North East Cambridgeshire's Stephen Barclay, who both claimed nearly £46,000.

Cambridge's Julian Huppert claimed £33,444.

Matthew Sinclair, the chief executive of the TaxPayers' Alliance, was concerned by an overall rise in claims.

He said: "Of course MPs should get reasonable office and staff support to assist them in their important work representing constituents at Westminster, but these costs must be kept under control.

"Taxpayers want to know that they are getting value for their money and they will have serious concerns about there being a hike in the overall cost of running MPs' offices over the last 12 months.

"While there have been many sensible changes to the expenses regime since the 2009 scandal, this kind of year-on-year rise is totally unsustainable and Ipsa has to explain to those of us footing the bill how that has been allowed to happen.

"Unfortunately, Ipsa's ability to safeguard taxpayers' money has already been called into question, given its own administrative costs and its recent decision to decamp to a plush hotel to hatch its plan to increase MPs' pay.

"What remains essential is that all details of MPs' expenses and office costs are easily accessible so that taxpayers can judge for themselves how their representatives are spending their cash and hold them to account as appropriate."

NEW NUMBERS: Work will begin in 2014 to add the new classrooms to the building.

School set for new expansion

DEBRA FOX

A HAVERHILL primary school will finally be able to meet pupil demand as an expansion is given the go ahead.

Clements Primary School, on Greenfields Way, is one of seven schools to be increased by Suffolk County Council.

Extra pupil places are being allocated to the primary, and plans for three extra classrooms are also going to be put in place to accommodate the new and rising numbers.

The year groups, from reception to year six, will each increase from 30 to 45 pupils.

Head teacher Lesley Farrow says this is excellent news for the school, as students have been turned away in the past due to lack of places.

She said: "Some of the children haven't got places with us for reception when we have gotten to know them and their families. That's been very upsetting for us."

"Our early years area will be re-modelled and we will have three new classrooms, as well as toilets and activity areas.

"We are a community school."

Work to expand the school is expected to begin early next year, and the larger reception class will start in September 2014.

In bloom for harvest celebrations

BEAUTIFUL floral displays are coming to Haverhill to herald the new season.

The annual Harvest Festival weekend is taking place at the town's Old Independent Church, on Hamlet Road, this Saturday and Sunday.

Open on Saturday from 10am, guests can browse the grade two listed building and admire the flowers or make a purchase from the table top sale.

The celebrations will continue into Sunday, with a service for all to attend from 10.45am.

Tea, coffee and cakes will also be served at the church, which celebrated its 350th birthday last year.

Could you befriend a vulnerable adult?

A COMMUNITY group is looking for volunteers to help vulnerable adults in the area.

The Befriending Scheme is holding a recruitment event at The Newcroft, on Chalkstone Way, Haverhill, to invite visitors to learn more about what the group does.

Adults who suffer from learning difficulties or mental illness use the scheme to make new friends and take advantage of social opportunities.

The Haverhill branch of the charity, which has hubs across Suffolk, runs regular drop-in sessions in the town every Friday and two Tuesday evenings a month.

Volunteer co-ordinator Ruth Barton wants to find more people willing to "befriend" someone for only a couple of hours a week.

She said: "We match people up according to their interests and linked friends meet up for a few hours once a week or so."

"Vulnerable people often find it harder to make friends, so a little bit of time can make a huge difference to someone's life."

The free-entry event is taking place on September 25, between 7.30-9.30pm.

Three is the magic number for couple who thought they'd never have kids

ROOM FOR MORE: Jenny and Nathan Cash with their triplets and daughter Alessia

After seven miscarriages, Jenny Cash didn't think she'd ever become a mum. But fate had other plans and, after giving birth to daughter Alessia two years ago, she and husband Nathan have just welcomed triplets into their lives – conceived naturally, as they tell Emma Higginbotham.

ARRIVING at Nathan and Jenny Cash's house, I'm expecting to be hit by a wall of noise.

Not only do the couple have a toddler on their hands, but last month Jenny gave birth to triplets – and they've now brought the teeny trio home. They'll all be screaming their heads off, surely?

But no. As Nathan shows me in, 2-year-old Alessia smiles shyly at me from where she sits, snuggled quietly on her mum's lap, while the triplets – identical twin boys Ben and Jayden, and a little girl, Taylor – snooze peacefully in their cot. Only the occasional snuffle breaks the peace.

They're absolutely adorable, but even by newborn standards, the babies are tiny. Delivered by caesarean on August 6 at 33-and-a-half weeks – as is the norm for triplets – they weighed just over four-and-a-half pounds each: "If it had been one baby, it wouldn't have been due until the end of September," says Jenny.

Conceived naturally, the triplets' appearance in the world is remarkable in itself ("They told us at the hospital that the odds of that are 8,100 to one," says Nathan. "I should've had a bet..."), but even more so given that before she fell pregnant with Alessia, Jenny had no fewer than seven miscarriages.

"We never found out why," says Jenny, 35. "We had tests, but they just said 'It's just one of those things, and if you can bear it, just keep trying'."

To have the large family they always hoped for has made life complete for Jenny and Nathan, who have known each other since primary school. Jenny grew up in Bar Hill and Nathan moved to the village aged 7, but they didn't get together until they were 17-year-olds at Long Road Sixth Form College: "Jenny wouldn't kiss me before then; I dumped her a few times at primary school for not kissing me, but I always fancied her," grins Nathan.

After college, Nathan's work as an aircraft engineer took the couple away from the area: they lived in Venice for several years before settling in Manchester. At that point they decided to try for a baby, and were delighted when, in 2008, dance teacher Jenny fell pregnant.

"We were over the moon," recalls Nathan. "The 12-week scan was fine – but then Jenny had some bleeding. We went in and they said 'Sorry, there's no heartbeat.' Four months into the pregnancy, the baby had died."

"It was horrible, a nightmare. Then we had it six more times after that. And every time it was like 'Here we go again'. It just kept happening."

"We went to two different hospitals, but they couldn't find anything," adds Jenny. "They said it was just bad luck, really." But she refused to give up: "I just thought 'Well, we'll keep trying'. The first one was awful, and then got easier, in a horrible way, because you sort of get used to it."

Determined to end 2009 on a good note, the couple tied the knot and, when Nathan was offered a job at Marshalls in Cambridge, the newlyweds decided to move back to Bar Hill. "Then we bought this house – and Alessia came along," says Jenny.

EASY AS ONE, TWO, THREE: Taylor, Jayden and Ben Cash

Alessia was born at the end of July 2011 and, to their delight, Jenny fell pregnant again last year. But at one point, it looked as though they were facing yet another loss when, at seven weeks, Jenny began to bleed.

Worried, the couple headed to the Rosie for a scan. "We were thinking 'Here we go again, another miscarriage'," says Nathan, "and they said 'Oh no, everything's fine; you're not miscarrying - it's twins! So we thought 'Great!'"

But the biggest surprise was yet to come. "We didn't want to tell anyone until we'd had the next scan, which was quite late, at about 14 weeks," says Jenny. "I was already showing, and wearing Nathan's hoodies to dance classes; I thought 'Oh, it's just because it's twins'."

"Then the sonographer said 'So what did they tell you at your last scan?' and I said 'That it's twins - why, have I lost one?' That's what I assumed she was going to say. And she was like 'Um, no! Check this out.'"

Looking at the monitor, the couple couldn't believe their eyes: there, plain to see, were three pairs of arms and legs, and three tiny heads.

"It's a bit ironic, really, after all the miscarriages, then to be having triplets; it seemed like someone was having a laugh upstairs," says Nathan, who subsequently discovered he has multiple births on his dad's side, two generations back.

There was no disguising that Jenny had an unusual pregnancy; her bump was, she admits, "Massive! I was literally three times bigger," she smiles. "People would come and hug me, and in the hospital concourse, it took me ages to go and get a Costa because four or five people would stop me and say 'That's not one baby, is it!'"

But by the end, it was no laughing matter: "It was just so tight, so stretched; I was really uncomfortable for those last few weeks. On the day itself I was like 'Get them out! I've had enough now!'"

Going into theatre, Jenny says she was "nice and calm" - but they weren't alone: no less than 29 medics were in the room with them. "They have a different station for each baby, so it was quite busy," says Jenny. "People were just milling around chatting - it was a bit like laying in their staff canteen! But they were all awesome."

The tiny babies each arrived a minute apart: first the boys, both at 4lbs 9oz, followed by Taylor at 4lbs 8oz.

"They all came out crying; they were like a litter of kittens, with little tiny cries," recalls Jenny. "One lady's job title was 'baby catcher', so the surgeon handed her the baby, and then she would bring them to us, then she'd take them off to the neo-natal team."

"We had a quick cuddle with the boys - they were fine, but Taylor needed a bit of help breathing. She went into an incubator, but they brought the whole thing back round by my head so I could still see her through the glass, even though I couldn't give her a hug."

The couple had been warned that the babies would need to go into the NICU (neonatal intensive care unit): "Before we had them, they said you can expect them to be in for a couple of months, because they will be really premature. Then after a week and a half they said 'You can take them home now'," laughs Jenny.

Today, the babies are thriving. In fact there's only problem - telling the boys apart - so they've left Ben's hospital tag on for now. And the family are already in a routine: Jenny goes to bed at the same time as Alessia while Nathan does the late feeds, then she takes over for the 3am and 6am feeds. "It only takes one of them to start," says Jenny. "I thought they'd comfort each other, but to be honest they just wake each other up! You just go with whoever's awake first and feed them in that order."

The couple have been bowled over by people's kindness: "My work colleagues did a whip-round for us and got us £290, people started collections, and gave us clothes, car seats, all sorts of things," says Nathan. "Even Tesco gave us a trolley full of stuff, and the guy who owns South Farm is doing us a weekly veg box. It's been brilliant."

And Alessia? "She loves the babies still, so that's good!" says Jenny. "She just wants to be helpful. She's like 'I'll hold the baby,' and you're like 'OK, just stop squashing them!'"

Obviously having a such a big family has its practical problems; they can't fit four baby seats into their car for a start, but they're not concerned in the least: "If I've got to take them somewhere, I'll just have to get mum to come with me and take two cars," shrugs Jenny.

"I never thought we'd be a big family," adds Nathan. "I thought we'd be lucky to have two, and we'd be happy with two, so it's kind of like 'Pow! There you go.' When I get to the big gates upstairs I'm going to tell God he's been having a laugh with us."

THURLOW News and Stores is a family run village shop and Post Office that has been kept running by Naomi Sharrod since November 2011.

As Naomi explains: "We have four young children and didn't want the shop to close when the previous owner decided it was time to retire."

"We now have the longest opening hours for our Post Office for miles around. I was keen to discuss with villagers and current customers what they wanted to see in store and took on their views and expanded the stock range that way."

"I knew what we wanted readily available on the doorstep and would rather stay in the village than drive to the supermarket. Everyone tarnishes village stores with the expensive label but I quite often see items in large supermarkets that we are cheaper than! We have a wide selection of fresh fruit and vegetables and the biggest stock range we have seen at Thurlow Shop for many years."

Thurlow News and Stores can often be seen at local events with their own branded produce of jams, chutneys, biscuits and cakes. They also offer a newspaper delivery service to local villages and parts of Haverhill as well as free local delivery for shop-based items. They are found at The Street, Thurlow, near Haverhill, Suffolk CB9 7LA.

The shop is open from Monday to Friday between 8am and 5.30pm, on Saturday from 8am to 4pm and on Sunday from 9am to 1pm, while the Post Office is open from Monday to Friday between 8.30am to 5.30pm, and on Saturday from 8.30am to 4pm.

They don't close for lunch, or take a half day on Wednesdays.

FUNDRAISING: Caroline Turton, Hayley Patrick, Cheryl Fuller and Charlie Cody-Richardson from Swayne and Partners, with £750 raised for St Nicholas Hospice Care

Animal magic for hospice

VETERINARY surgeons across Suffolk have been fundraising hard all summer.

Swayne and Partners has raised £750 for St Nicholas Hospice Care with a range of animal activities at its surgeries in Haverhill, Newmarket, Bury St Edmunds and Long Melford.

The company's mobile vet clinic visited fetes and events across the county, and staff offered advice and tips to visiting pet owners.

Hayley Patrick, veterinary nurse, said the company also has plans to support the hospice next year.

She said: "We have been delighted to support St Nicholas Hospice Care, which is such a great local charity in our community."

The team also held dogbola stalls as a fun way to entice pets and raise more money.

The new CEO also hopes to help the participating groups identify gaps in their service, and work towards giving the communities in Suffolk the transport they deserve.

Ms Waters said: "Community transport services provide a lifeline to thousands of people across the county who have no other means of transport and would otherwise be left lonely and isolated."

Moving home can be a complicated business and in the hectic run up to the big day it is all too easy to forget something vital. The team offers their readers this handy checklist to help avoid any major pitfalls. We suggest you tick them off as you go....

1 4-2 WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Packing – start packing and sorting through your belongings. Now is a good time to de-clutter and pack items rarely used. Make sure you have plenty of sturdy boxes, bubble wrap and sticky tape.
- ☐ Removal companies – get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Insurance – check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Utilities – make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move. Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Telecommunications – Notify your telephone and broadband provider and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone and broadband facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Post – Look into re-directing your post for a few months to make sure you receive all relevant correspondence.
- ☐ Children – Look into the possibility of your children, especially young children, staying with family or friends on the day of the move.
- ☐ Pets – Make arrangements for any pets to be booked into a cattery or kennels if required. Having your pets microchipped is a good idea and if already microchipped, have the address changed to your new one. Your vet can advise on this.

Change of address – tell companies and organisations that you are moving!

- ☐ Laundry – do any last minute laundry that you can – have you arranged for a plumber to disconnect your washing machine correctly?

- ☐ Kitchen cupboards – go through your kitchen cupboards and throw out anything not in date. Also check that all jars and bottles are correctly sealed before packing.
- ☐ Fridges / Freezers – empty and clean out in preparation for moving. If you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

the GUIDE

Touring Trap

IT'S the longest running show in the world of theatre – now that's quite an achievement. Agatha Christie's The Mousetrap is what you call the ultimate murder mystery and is on its 60th anniversary diamond tour.

If you haven't seen it before, firstly, where have you been? And secondly, as you can imagine, it does of course involve a murder, a country house and a host of suspicious guests – as all good murder mysteries do, and don't forget the twist...

Ella Walker briefly caught up with one of the show's stars, Karl Howman, who is reprising his role as the shadowy Mr Paravicini.

How would you describe your character (without giving the game away)?

This was written in 1952, which was only seven years after the war ended, so an Italian foreigner, a stranger who arrives at the house seeking refuge from the blizzard, is, one would say, a villain. Everyone who was foreign was a suspect then you see, it didn't matter what country, especially the ones we were opposing like Italy and Germany.

Is he even really Italian?

Supposedly Italian – in those days you had to take people for their word because we didn't have Wikipedia, you couldn't just get your phone out. You had to take people's word for it which is really the strength of Christie, because if anybody says something to you, you can't check, especially if you're trapped; and the characters are because of the blizzard.

What appealed you about The Mousetrap?

It was Agatha Christie: it was iconic. I just wanted to be a part of it and it's my 60th year too, so this is the perfect time.

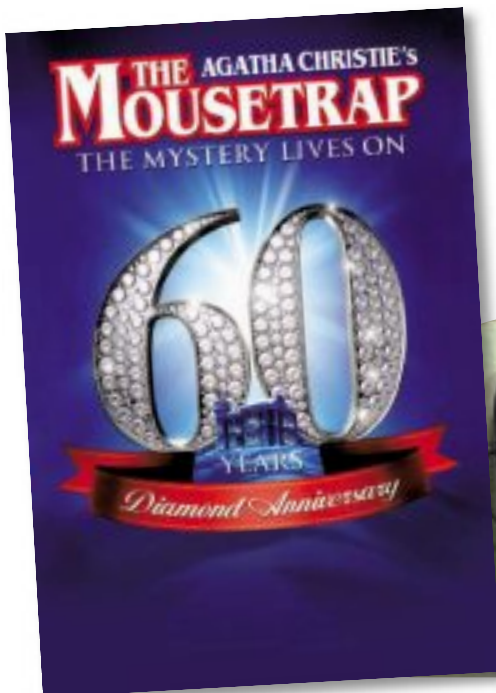

You're also writing the follow up to your 2010 film Fathers of Girls (which starred Ray Winstone). You must be busy, writing, touring and performing every night.

No, no, no, don't put it down that I'm busy! You'd pass a hundred people on the street who are 100 times busier than me! I sit at a desk and if I think of something I'll write it down, that's how busy I am, and then I stroll into a theatre, go on stage, enjoy myself in front of a thousand people and then walk off, go home, have something to eat and go to bed. Now that isn't busy, that's enjoyment.

Why do you think The Mousetrap is so enduringly popular?

I'll give you three reasons. First, Agatha Christie the brand; a worldwide brand, books published in every country more or less, and the play does what it says on the tin, it's an Agatha Christie thriller. Two, The Mousetrap was her first play, it was only performed in the West End apart from a brief tour so it created a club, a "Who's seen The Mousetrap?" Club. And word of mouth: you've got to see The Mousetrap and then you're got to keep quiet about who did it! And the third thing I think is the popularity of the television series, Marple and Poirot. The production qualities are just marvellous, in my opinion they're just brilliant.

● The Mousetrap, Cambridge Corn Exchange, Monday, until Saturday, September 21 at 7.30pm. Tickets £25 – £31.50 from (01223) 357 851 / www.cornex.co.uk.

Literary feast

LORD of Padstow (not his official title mind, he just runs half the Cornish seaside town), Rick Stein is the king of seafood and is the first big fish (sorry) getting this year's Ely Literary Festival off to a swimming start (yep, and again) tonight at 7pm at Ely Cathedral.

The TV chef and restaurateur will be discussing his new autobiography Under A Mackerel Sky, a memoir that tussles with a seemingly idyllic, roaming childhood in Oxfordshire which was obliterated by his father's suicide when Stein was 18. Adrift and broken, Stein escaped to Australia, New Zealand and Mexico before returning to Cornwall where, after a few false starts and a few odd jobs, he started making a name for himself in food.

And he's ever so good at food and is rather expert at churning out a cookery book to coincide with each new BBC-funded culinary adventure. A case in point; he recently shot back up the book chart with Rick Stein's India: In Search Of The Perfect Curry, the spice-laden accompaniment to his BBC cookery-cum-travel show of the same name.

Hear Rick, right, chat about food stuffs, trips and growing up, and expect to feel incredibly hungry.

There's another foodie event for you (particularly you literary types who love to read and snack) at Old Bishop's Palace on Monday, September 23 at 7.30pm.

Deb Perelman, who launched

Smitten Kitchen, her award-winning cookery blog more than seven years ago, with the aim of showcasing: "Fearless cooking from a tiny kitchen in New York City," will be speaking about her career and her blog.

The premise for the blog is: "A lot of comfort foods stepped up a bit, things like bread and birthday cakes made entirely from scratch and tutorials on everything from how to poach an egg to how to make tart doughs that don't shrink up on you, but also a favorite side dish (zucchini and almonds) that takes less than five minutes to make." Get the idea? It doesn't matter if you're a pro with a pan and a shelf of ingredients, or are slightly more apprehensive about switching the oven on, she'll charm you anyway.

Deb will be chatting about her debut cookery book, The Smitten Kitchen Cookbook, and doing a few foodie demonstrations to boot.

And bewitching is a term often used to describe the elusive Cambridge-based author Ali Smith, left.

Her stories, from the whimsical, worrisome The Accidental (which won the 2005 Whitbread Novel Award and was shortlisted for the Orange and the Man Booker Prize), to the crush of freedom and anonymity explored in Hotel World (also shortlisted for the Orange and the Man Booker), spiral wonderingly and playfully.

The Inverness-born writer studied in Aberdeen before taking up a PhD at Newnham College in Cambridge (she didn't finish it), lecturing at the University of Strathclyde and then pitching fully into authorhood.

At Ely library on Tuesday, September 24 at 7.30pm, She will be discussing her latest book, Shire, which fuses fiction, autobiography and poetry in four short tales about life and landscape in Cambridge, linking it silkily with Smith's homelands in the north of Scotland, all prettily illustrated by Sarah Wood.

Also gracing the festival's line-up this year are Jennifer Saunders, Bill Bryson, Penelope Lively, Louis de Bernieres and Margaret Drabble; plus AC Grayling, Kate Adie and Oz Clarke.

Plus, Topping & Co. together with our sister title the Cambridge News – who are proud to be media partners – are offering readers a £2 discount on ticket prices for Stein's talk.

The full festival programme is now online at www.toppingbooks.co.uk/events/ely.

■ On the cinema front, RENOIR (12A), based on real events and on the writing of his great-grandson Jacques, is a tenderly observed yet powerful study of family strife, centred on the great artist Pierre-Auguste Renoir during the early days of World War One. Recently widowed, 74-year-old Renoir Sr is rejuvenated by the arrival of Andrée, a luminous young model. But when his favoured son Jean returns badly wounded from the front he too falls for Andrée. French with English subtitles; showing on Monday September 23 at 7.45pm. A grim game of cat and mouse ensues in thriller THE FROZEN GROUND (15), based on real events, on Tuesday September 24 at 7.45pm. John Cusack plays an abductor of wayward girls whom he later releases as terrified targets for lethal hunting sprees in the bleak Alaskan landscape.

Nicholas Cage's Det. Jack Halcombe is doggedly determined to find the killer who's managed to evade capture for 13 years and is finally aided by the one woman who managed to escape.

certificate 12A, 1h53m

IN life, the Princess Of Wales divided opinion. So it's fitting that Oliver Hirschbiegel's drama based on Kate Snell's contentious book Diana: Her Last Love, should have stirred controversy before a single frame has unspooled on the big screen.

Dr Nasrat Khan, the subject of the picture, publicly denounced the film as a fiction, while a pre-recorded radio interview with star Naomi Watts ended abruptly with the suggestion that she walked out on DJ Simon Mayo.

Tittle tattle aside, Diana is a trashy made-for-TV movie blessed with an award-winning German director and an Oscar nominated lead actress, whose talents are well and truly squandered.

Both are undone by Stephen Jeffrey's clumsy script while Watts also lacks sexual chemistry with co-star Naveen Andrews, making a mockery of the tears and tantrums when the central relationship ultimately breaks down.

If the public image of the princess was elegance and poise, behind the scenes in Hirschbiegel's film she is emotionally cold and calculating, tipping off a tabloid photographer to her whereabouts so he can splash pictures of her on a yacht with Dodi Fayed (Can Anvar) and pique the jealousy of Dr Khan (Andrews).

Pathetic attempts to win Khan back take a leaf out of the book of Bridget Jones including scenes of Diana attempting different dialects in the hope the doctor will take her call.

Opening in Paris in 1997, Hirschbiegel's film rewinds two years to sow the seeds of romance between the princess and Khan, part of which involves smuggling him into Kensington Palace in the back of her car.

The pressure of conducting a romance through the omnipresent lens of the media takes its toll and Khan eventually ends the affair, propelling Diana into Dodi's arms.

The film isn't quite the total disaster some critics have suggested but it comes perilously close. Watts offers a passable impression of a global icon, rehearsing answers to Martin Bashir's questions in a mirror so she can perfect her head tilt as she whispers, "There were three of us in this marriage... so it was a bit crowded."

Andrews fails to live up to his surgeon's nickname as Mr Wonderful and Hirschbiegel's direction lacks energy.

An excessive two-hour running time will test the patience of even the most ardent and devoted Diana fan.

Storage is the secret...

THE warm summer months might be over, but the abundant wild berries, plentiful apples, and juicy tomatoes they helped create can make it feel like the sun is still shining.

It's unlikely keen gardeners can manage to eat all this bumper produce immediately though, which is where the art of storage comes in.

Maincrop potatoes and onions will keep well in a cool shed or garage, while garlic should be placed in a cool room in the house. All three should be free of soil and perfectly dry before storing. Onions and garlic can be strung and hung up, while potatoes will be quite happy in paper or a hessian sack, kept in the dark to stop them from sprouting.

If you have blackcurrants, redcurrants and gooseberries, these are perfect for jams, partly because they contain plenty of pectin, the ingredient that makes jam set. With jams or jellies, it is important to sterilise the jars and lids for 10 minutes in boiling water before using them. Most fruits and vegetables will last up to 12 months using this method.

by Hannah Stephenson

Blackberries and other wild berries have been abundant this year, thanks to last year's wet summer and this year's dry one, and are easy to freeze (although avoid freezing strawberries as they become mushy). Just select the best fruit, spreading the berries in a single layer on a clean tray and put it in the fast-freeze section of the freezer. Once it's frozen, transfer it to bags and return it to the freezer.

If you have too many ripe tomatoes, try drying them in the oven, placing them on a tray at the lowest setting for several hours with the oven door just ajar. Alternatively, skin them by placing them in a bowl of just boiled water, leaving them there for a few minutes, then removing the skin and blitzing them into a puree which can be a base for any Italian passata, which can be frozen. Unripe tomatoes can also be transformed into delicious green tomato chutney, there are umpteen recipes to be found on the internet.

Cucumbers spring to mind when we think of pickling, but many vegetables and fruits can be preserved in this manner including peppers, cauliflower, apples and pears. Peas and green beans should be blanched (dunked in boiling water for several minutes, then plunged into cold water and dried off) before freezing, while courgettes freeze satisfactorily in prepared dishes such as ratatouille, and pumpkins can be made into preserves using lemons, sugar and mixed spices.

Root vegetables such as carrots, parsnips, beetroot and celeriac can generally be left in the ground until required, although try to dig a few up to store in a cool place before winter sets in and the ground becomes too hard to harvest them easily.

To store gluts of apples and pears, you'll need to handle them carefully, placing them in a room with a low, even temperature, good ventilation and a moist atmosphere such as a cellar.

If you are putting apples in your garden shed, wrap them in newspaper (this slows the shrivelling process and isolates rots), put them in boxes, stack them in a cool spot under insulation (such as straw or polystyrene sheets) and cover with polythene.

Check them regularly for signs of disease and remove any which have rotted. Pears prefer slightly drier and warmer conditions and are best not wrapped or stacked.

CAMBRIDGE SUBARU:
Now open for business at Harston site

Subaru moves to Harston – again!

AFTER a 25-year gap the Subaru franchise has returned to the Buckingham & Stanley Group, with Cambridge Subaru now based at the firm's site in High Street, Harston.

Dealer principal James Howarth is delighted with the new marque's return.

"Returning to Subaru after so many years is an obvious choice given that it was only the growth of Saab that forced us to make the decision to part company last time around," Howarth told drive. "However, with the demise of Saab as a manufacturer it makes sense to go back to a brand that has so much affinity with Saab."

Both Saab and Subaru of course started out as aircraft manufacturers – high in engineering and design skills – and it was inevitable that once both manufacturers elected to start manufacturing cars that their products would be both individual and unique, breaking new ground in both technology and safety standards.

Both then went on to establish their credentials through the world of rallying, with Erik Carlsson in the Saab 96 and Robert McRae with the Subaru Impreza, so it was perhaps inevitable to see that eventually both companies would be working on a number of joint engineering and design products including the Saab 9-2, affectionately known as the Saab 'ura' and the later Saab 9-6 'Tribeca'. Both projects enhanced the synergy between the two brands.

Interest in the Saab brand at Cambridge Saab continues, with demand for used Saab cars continuing unabated, which Howarth explains down to its "exceptionally loyal following". Buckingham & Stanley is now looking forward to introducing the many attributes of Subaru which the team believes shares "that same individual yet alternative choice that Saab offered to the more traditional and better known German products".

With Subaru's unique boxer engine design offering a low centre of gravity, together with their approach to constant asymmetrical four wheel drive throughout the range – incidentally the Japanese brand has made more four-wheel drive cars than Land Rover – Subaru can lay claim to being the only true four wheel drive range of cars.

Coupled to such innovative design features such as the Linear-tronic automatic gearboxes, Subaru is an engineered product that will have that different and alternative appeal away from the mainstream close to the heart of the original appeal that was so cleverly fostered by Saab.

With a selection of demonstrators from across the Subaru range and service-trained technicians on-site Cambridge Subaru is now open for business at 59-61 High Street, Harston CB22 7PZ. Call (01223) 873666 or visit cambridgesubaru.co.uk.

There will be five trim levels for the new SUV, comprising S, SE, SE Nav, Premium and Premium Panorama.

All models come with a long list of standard equipment that includes LED daytime running lights, tyre pressure monitoring system and Trailer Stability Assist to help when towing.

There are also alloy wheels, air conditioning, Hill Assist Control and Downhill Brake Control for off-road driving.

Both two and four-wheel drive versions of the ix35 will be available depending on engine choice.

There are 1.6-litre petrol and 1.7- and 2.0-litre turbodiesel engines to pick from. The popular 1.7-litre diesel offers 139g/km carbon dioxide emissions, while the new 2.0-litre diesel delivers improved 41.5mpg and 179g/km CO2 emissions compared to the previous version.

Big break! Injury can't stop Will taking the title

A BROKEN ankle did nothing to hold back Will Kingsbury as he was crowned Haverhill Summer Singles League pool champion. Kingsbury (pictured), Dick Lee and Scott Williamson were the three winners of the individual divisions and they went through to a play-off for the cup. Kingsbury had injured his ankle in a football accident but had no problem hopping round the table to victory.

Strong performance earns deserved win over tough opponents

Haverhill Rugby Club under-13s had to dig deep to win their opening match of the season against a well drilled Bury side.

From the start of the match, Haverhill showed their dominance in the breakdown, with forwards Mitchell Morgen, Joe Milner and Josh Gilligan proving too much for the Bury pack.

Haverhill's first try came from a scrum, with the ball coming out to Ben Bradnam who beat three players to score.

Dean Cleary added the conversion.

Playing with the wind at his back, Haverhill captain Oily Cooper was able to ensure that his kicks kept Bury under pressure and a well-worked ruck gave Cleary the space to release Cooper from the 10-yard line and run in their second try.

Cleary again added the extra points.

Bury responded well to going two tries down and showed real purpose in their attacking play.

Shortly before half time they ran the ball in for a well-worked try which

Battle: Action from Haverhill under-13s' hard fought 19-12 win over Bury they easily converted. The second half proved to be a tough encounter and both team's tackling skills were put to the test.

The Haverhill pack remained strong in the battle between the forwards and hard tackling from Jake North and Billy Notley gave Morgen the chance to crash over the whitewash and score Haverhill's third try.

A late try from Bury in the closing stages meant the match ended nervously for Haverhill but the strength of their resolve meant they saw out a 19-12 win.

McKay gets two in draw for Haverhill

BRANDON McKay hit a double as Haverhill Rovers drew 3-3 with Tuddenham in Cambridge & District Colts League 14D.

David Scott was also on target for the Rovers under-14s, who were denied by a last-minute equaliser.

In the under-13 9v9 City division, Haverhill Rovers Red suffered a 5-2 defeat at the hands of Aztec.

A double from Finley Plant put West Wratting on their way to a 3-2 win over Panthers in BM Kempton Youth League, Division 12A.

A strike by Josh Lee completed the scoring.

Thurlow under-10s are looking for new players to join their squad for this season.

Players should be born between September 1, 2003 and August 31, 2004

Anyone interested should contact Wayne on 07831 626982 or email wayne.gardner@tiscali.co.uk.

Rovers have more to come after win

DEAN Greygoose believes his young Haverhill Rovers side are only going to keep improving after extending their unbeaten run in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division to five games.

Two goals from Dan Cornwell in the first half were enough to secure a 2-1 win for Rovers at home to Kirkley & Pakefield, who pulled one back inside the final 10 minutes.

The hosts also had a goal ruled out for offside and although manager Greygoose conceded his team had not had everything their own way, he was nonetheless pleased.

"After being given a bit of a runaround in the first half, we went in 2-0 up and probably could have had three or four," he said.

"With the budget we have got, I have had to bring mainly young players in. But we're building for the next two or three seasons and it's not just about this year."

Luke Strutton bagged a brace as Haverhill Borough ended Halstead Town's 100 per cent record with a 2-1 away win in the Thurlow Nunn League, First Division on Tuesday.

Both goals came in the first half from Tom Hardwick crosses.

Halstead, who had a player sent off for two bookable offences in the second half, pulled a goal back in the 69th minute, but Borough held on and are second in the table on goal difference from leaders Swaffham.

But Ben Cowling was left in a state of disbelief after Saturday saw Borough let a 3-1 lead slip before going down 6-3 to Stowmarket in the Thurlow Nunn League, Division One Cup preliminary round.

After conceding just 90 seconds into the match, two goals from Callum Harrison and one for Luke Weaver saw Borough take control of the match.

However, two goals in the final 15 minutes levelled the scores before Stowmarket hit three in extra time to book their place in the next round.

"I don't think I've ever seen a game like it," said Borough boss Cowling. "I don't know whether to focus on the first great 70 minutes or the 42 minutes of dross that followed."

Rovers do not have a game this weekend due to much of the division being in FA Vase action, while Borough are at home to strugglers Downham Town.
